DEDICATION OF ST. JOHN LATERAN

November 9th

THE GREAT EXPERIENCE OF LOVE

In today's Gospel, Jesus' greatest commandment is to love God with all our hearts and to love our neighbor as we love ourselves. We all know that this commandment is central to Jesus' teaching and our faith. Loving God and others is challenging and an important test of our faith. Love is not easy, but it can bring joy to the heart of the one who loves. What makes this command so difficult is that it is ongoing. When it comes to the people we live with, work with, go to school with, and all the people we see regularly, it is not a question of loving them once. We are asked to love them again and again, day after day.

Love cannot become a mandatory human act or an order we must fulfill. If we consider this commandment an obligation or a simple burden, it could be a difficult and impossible human action that is very far from Jesus' invitation. Instead, let us suppose this love is a manifest of my relationship with God and reflects the love I have received from God. If that is true, living now will be a wonderful experience, and the fruits of it will be joy and peace that can be developed without any significant effort. This is how you can show love to your neighbor as you love yourself.

No, if we have love, we will show our love not just by saying it but by showing it in our actions. In this context, love is a verb. Love is something we do.

Love means caring about people. We can see God's love for us through the gift of his Son Jesus. God shows his love for us by giving us commandments. God's commandments are not intended to make us do things for him. God gives us good commandments that will lead us to have a long life and to grow and prosper. The first three of the Ten Commandments point us to know what it means to love God, have no other gods, and keep the Sabbath holy. The remaining seven Commandments tell us to understand what it means to love our neighbor. If we love our neighbors, we respect what they have to say. We do not steal from them or consider them to be objects of lust. We don't kill or harm them. We do not covet their property or family.

God loves us. We must let go of trying to be our saviors in this material world and instead rely on God as the source of true strength, making Him our rock and fortress, knowing He is our Savior.

Pastor

SAINT OF THE WEEK: CHARLES BORROMEO

The name of Charles Borromeo is associated with reform. Charles lived during the Protestant Reformation and had a hand in reforming the whole Church during the final years of the Council of Trent.

Although he belonged to the Milanese nobility and was related to the powerful Medici family, Charles desired to devote himself to the Church. In 1559, when his uncle, Cardinal de Medici, was elected Pope Pius IV, he made Charles cardinal-deacon and administrator of the Archdiocese of Milan. At the time, Charles was still a layman and a young student. Because of his intellectual qualities, Charles was entrusted with several important offices connected with the Vatican and later appointed secretary of state responsible for the papal states. The untimely death of his elder brother brought Charles to a definite decision to be ordained a priest, despite his relatives' insistence that he marry. Soon after being ordained a priest at age 25, Borromeo was consecrated bishop of Milan.

Working behind the scenes, St. Charles deserves the credit for keeping the Council of Trent in session when, at several points, it was on the verge of breaking up. Borromeo encouraged the pope to renew the Council in 1562 after it had been suspended for ten years. He took on the task of handling all the correspondence during the final phase. Because of his work at the Council, Borromeo could not reside in Milan until the Council concluded.

Eventually, Borromeo was allowed to devote his time to the Archdiocese of Milan, where the religious and moral picture was far from bright. The reform needed in every phase of Catholic life among clergy and laity was initiated at a provincial council of all the bishops under him. Specific regulations were drawn up for bishops and other clergy: If the people were to be converted to a better life, Borromeo had to be the first to give a good example and renew their apostolic spirit.

Charles took the initiative to give a good example. He allotted most of his income to charity, forbade himself all luxury, and imposed severe penances upon himself. He sacrificed wealth, high honors, esteem, and influence to become poor. During the plague and famine of 1576, Borromeo tried to feed 60,000 to 70,000 people daily. To do this, he borrowed large sums of money that required years to repay. Whereas the civil authorities fled at the height of the plague, he stayed in the city, where he ministered to the sick and the dying, helping those in want.

Work and the heavy burdens of his high office began to affect Archbishop Borromeo's health, leading to his death at age 46.

FEAST OF THE DEDICATION OF THE LATERAN BASILICA ROME: "MATER ET CAPUT"

The name "Lateran" is derived from the fact that this Basilica was constructed on the territory that belonged to the Lateran family before it was bequest as an inheritance to Fausta, the wife of Emperor Constantine. Pope Sylvester I consecrated the Basilica on November 9, 324, and the liturgical feast of the Basilica, which is celebrated on the same day, commemorates this event. This feast has a special importance because the Lateran Basilica was the first church dedicated to the Most Holy Saviour under the express wishes of Emperor Constantine. The entire Church celebrates this feast as an affirmation of unity with the Pope, the Bishop of Rome and Head of the Universal Church.

The existence of the Basilica testifies to Constantine's vision of the cross in the sky, which turned out to be a prodigious event that profoundly changed the practice of Christianity during the first centuries.

Bishop Eusebius of Caesarea, a friend and confidant of Constantine, recounts that on the night preceding the battle for domination of the Roman Empire against Maxentius, the Emperor considered which god to appeal to for help and protection in the battle. Like his father, Constantine had decided to adopt the sun god, and he prayed that this god would reveal himself to him. Suddenly, a vision of an illuminous cross appeared in the sky, which was visible to the whole army. Beneath the vision were the words, "In hoc signo vinces," which means "With this sign, you will be victorious." The following morning, the army went into battle bearing the sign of the cross.

The battle occurred on October 28, 312, at Saxa Ruba in Rome and concluded with the Battle of the Milvian Bridge. Maxentius stumbled with his horse and fell into the River Tiber, leaving Constantine free to enter Rome victorious.

Thanks to this victory, the Emperor brought an end to three centuries of Christian persecution, during which many Christians were martyred. Constantine publicly authorized Christian worship with the proclamation of the celebrated Edict of Milan in 312.

The Emperor initially dedicated the Basilica to the Most Holy Saviour in gratitude for the victory. Only later, when the Basilica was also dedicated to Saints John the Baptist and the Evangelist, it became known by its most popular name, St. John Lateran.

The importance of the feast of the 'dedication of the Lateran Basilica' celebrates the fact that Christians could freely come together in union with their Bishop to celebrate the liturgy of the Church and receive the teaching of the doctrine of the faith. From antiquity, the Basilica became the Cathedral of Rome and the world. The Pope has his Cathedra or Chair here as a sign of his teaching, magisterium, and precedence. Therefore, the Petrine ministry is only initiated when the elected Pope has taken possession of the Chair of St. John Lateran.

This beautiful edifice represents the Church—the assembly formed of the 'living stones' of Christians who today, as in centuries past, continue to testify their faith in Jesus Christ, the Most Holy Saviour.

LA GRAN EXPERIENCIA DEL AMOR

En el Evangelio de hoy, el mandamiento más grande de Jesús es amar a Dios con todo nuestro corazón y amar al prójimo como a nosotros mismos. Todos sabemos que este mandamiento es central en la enseñanza de Jesús y en nuestra fe. Amar a Dios y al prójimo es un desafío y una prueba importante de nuestra fe. Amar no es fácil, pero puede traer alegría al corazón de quien ama. Lo que hace que este mandamiento sea tan difícil es que es continuo. Cuando se trata de las personas con las que vivimos, trabajamos, vamos a la escuela y todas las personas que vemos regularmente, no se trata de amarlas una sola vez. Se nos pide amarlas una y otra vez, día tras día.

El amor no puede convertirse en un acto humano obligatorio o una orden que debemos cumplir. Si consideramos este mandamiento como una obligación o una simple carga, podría ser una acción humana difícil e imposible, muy alejada de la invitación de Jesús. En cambio, supongamos que este amor es una manifestación de mi relación con Dios y refleja el amor que he recibido de Dios. Si esto es verdad, vivir ahora será una experiencia maravillosa, y los frutos de ella serán alegría y paz que se pueden desarrollar sin ningún esfuerzo significativo. Así es como puedes mostrar amor a tu prójimo como te amas a ti mismo.

No, si tenemos amor, lo demostraremos no solo diciéndolo sino mostrándolo en nuestras acciones. En este contexto, amar es un verbo. Amar es algo que hacemos.

Amar significa preocuparse por las personas. Podemos ver el amor de Dios por nosotros a través del don de su Hijo Jesús. Dios muestra su amor por nosotros al darnos mandamientos. Los mandamientos de Dios no tienen la intención de hacernos hacer cosas por él. Dios nos da buenos mandamientos que nos llevarán a tener una larga vida y a crecer y prosperar. Los primeros tres de los Diez Mandamientos nos indican qué significa amar a Dios, no tener otros dioses y santificar el sábado. Los siete Mandamientos restantes nos dicen que entendamos qué significa amar a nuestro prójimo. Si amamos a nuestro prójimo, respetamos lo que tiene que decir. No le robamos ni lo consideramos objeto de lujuria. No los matamos ni les hacemos daño. No codiciamos sus bienes ni sus familias.

Dios nos ama. Debemos dejar de intentar ser nuestros salvadores en este mundo material y, en cambio, confiar en Dios como la fuente de verdadera fortaleza, haciendo de Él nuestra roca, sabiendo que Él es nuestro Salvador.

P. Alfonso Cely
Pastor
